

Higginson Tells Own Story After Wife Backs Him

Described by his wife a few minutes before as "an ideal husband and father," Captain Thomas W. Higginson told Mr. Justice Ewing and a jury of six the story of his long friendship with Alma Armstrong, when he took the stand in his defence in criminal court on Tuesday afternoon to answer to the charge of murdering the Pigeon lake girl in the bedroom of his home on August 24 last.

Higginson denied that during their years of drinking and carousing together, that he and Alma had ever taken place between him and the girl when he termed "a nice little kid."

The accused asserted that he had been motivated by purely protective instincts; that he had felt duty for the girl and had tried to keep her from the sort of company which was keeping company which he explained, was but for her, because he knew the sort of people who were her companions.

Her Child Cause Of Great Joy

James Ogilvie, who is associated in the defence with Hugh C. MacDonald, K.C., was continuing the direct examination of Higginson when court adjourned and told the court that he would still be present at the examination Wednesday morning.

Following this will come the cross-examination of the accused by K. E. K. MacDonald, K.C., crown prosecutor, for it is stated that a person accused of murder retains the right to cross-examine the witnesses.

Mrs. Higginson was in the stand for a few minutes before her husband and described their happy married life.

The wife and the girl who had been found in bed together in a bullet-wound in her throat, had never met, it happened that Mrs. Higginson had been away each time that her husband had visited his young protégée to the home.

TELL ABOUT DEAD

Two girls who got the indication to "stay nothing but good of the dead," regretted it before they left the court.

Mr. MacDonald explained that he had been sworn to tell the truth and to give such evidence, but that it was necessary in the interests of the accused to tell the truth.

TO JURY TODAY

It will be around 4:30 p.m. on Wednesday before the case goes to the jury.

When court resumed at 2 p.m., Harold T. Weville was the first witness called by the defence. He said he was, Junior in the Northern block in the winter of 1932, and that he had known Alma since she was a man to look at.

SAY SNAKES

"She said there was snakes in the room," declared the witness.

There was whiskey in a bottle in the room, and a large gin bottle empty.

After an hour, a doctor was called to attend to the girl's injuries.

Weville went on to say that the doctor gave the girl two hypodermic injections.

"The girl bit her girl friend on the breast, and also on the arm, and she was holding to hold her on the bed," Weville informed the court.

The wife admitted to Mr. Ogilvie that he had not seen liquor in the girl's room often.

He had seen Higginson drop in for a visit on a few occasions, but he had not been present at the "snake" scene.

Weville said he had seen Alma after this had happened, and was shopping expedition in a local store, and he did not answer when he spoke to her.

LOOKED UNNATURAL

Weville faced the girl in the last location as August 15. The girl looked pale and dreamy—and he was not sure.

Cross-examined by Mr. Cogswell, Weville denied permitting drinking parties in the Northern block. He claimed that he had often remonstrated with Alma.

The junior admitted that only once had he found Alma in a hysterical condition as a result of drinking.

Julia Smiley, a petite brunette, said she had been a girl in the Northern block, and that she had known Alma Armstrong, and that she had seen her in the Northern block.

"She would take it down in one gulp," we said to the girl.

KNOW ACCUSED

The talkative brunette knew Higginson, said the Smiley girl, after some hesitation on the point.

Julia knew Neil McCuish, the Montreal administrator of Alma, she admitted.

The judge checked Mr. MacDonald at this juncture, and told him not to "lead" the witness.

Julia claimed that Alma told her that Higginson gave her envelopes already addressed to Mr. McCuish, and that Alma was provided by her to write to her dear man.

Witness alleged, also, that Alma told her that Higginson had been in his office, and that Alma "seemed" to be attracted by it and liked to be attracted by it.

ASKED TO SPEAK

Julia lost a lot of her composure when Mr. Cogswell asked her to examine Alma, she wasn't working at the moment. Her answers were frequently inaudible and Mr. Cogswell asked her to speak.

ARCTIC BOAT FAILS TO GET LONE PRIEST

Catholic Mission Ship Arrives at Bay Port Battered

CHURCHILL, Man., Oct. 3.—With a geyser hole in her side and her crew suffering from exhaustion and exposure, the Catholic mission supply ship Plut XI was in port last night with one objective—the rescue of Father B. N. Babin.

Trapped in wild gales on her 800-mile journey to Repulse Bay in the Arctic Circle, the little ship had been blown and battered for 100 miles to Igloodik where Father Babin was stranded four years ago. Every effort to break through and bring him back to civilization has proved futile.

Early winter squalls, freezing temperatures and icebergs preventing the Plut XI from reaching Igloodik, the little ship was blown and battered for 100 miles to Igloodik where Father Babin was stranded four years ago. Every effort to break through and bring him back to civilization has proved futile.

QUINTS GIVEN NEW DISHES

CALLANDER, Ont., Oct. 3.—The Dufour hospital for the Dimeque quintuplets Tuesday brought new dishes to the table by Mr. Thomas LaFrenay of North Bay.

"These contributions are much appreciated," said the doctor. "The children are growing well, and the mother is attending properly, and the hospital is mighty bare-looking."

The children, who were born on the 127-day old daughters of Mrs. Viola Dufour, of the city, and who were shown weight increases.

New Planets Found

RUSSELL, Oct. 3.—Discovery of seven minor planets between the orbits of Mars and Jupiter through the use of a photographic method announced by astronomers at the U.S. Observatory.

Alma (Smiley) She seemed to be very fond of it.

"She was a real drinker; she used to take it straight," added accused, smiling again.

On another occasion, while his wife was the coast, Higginson had Alma over to the house for a drink.

REFUSED TO GO

"When it was late, she suggested getting liquor from the Northern block and while she was out, I took her to the Northern block and she refused to go."

Higginson said she called a boy and went away for some hours, and that he and she went to the Northern block and she refused to go.

WIFE ON STAND

Next witness was Mrs. Higginson herself. After she was sworn in, she told the court that she had been with her husband for a moment as though in the Northern block.

They were married shortly after the outbreak of the war and he lived together always.

GEN WAS HANDY

Higginson said the revolver owned by Higginson lay on the floor of the little wardrobe in the bedroom, and that the door of the wardrobe was always open.

Witness recalled two other cartridges in a little dish in this room. "I often wonder why I never moved them," she testified.

"My husband had been here normal, and there had never been any trouble of any sort between them," she testified.

"He was the very best sort of husband and father. He was not impulsive, but might feel an easy way to designing people, she added.

Under cross-examination by Mr. Cogswell, she explained that she had been out to Sanguine twice in 1932.

She was not sure exactly when she spent out at Sanguine in 1932.

Only two questions were asked by Mr. Cogswell, and she had been an Edmonton resident since 1907.

Cogswell said Alma two years ago last May. He met her in a block in the Northern block, and that she was a friend of his.

"Alma was there, lying on a couch in pajamas. I only stayed five minutes."

Higginson said he went back the next day to apologize for "intruding on a private party."

BRIEF VIEW

"Alma was there again, and I only stayed a few minutes," added Higginson.

Higginson then related how he had met her here and there, and that she started visiting his office at night.

"I used to do a lot of work at night, and she would come in and read the paper and have a smoke," he testified.

Accused said he kept a revolver in his office, and that Alma "seemed" to be attracted by it and liked to be attracted by it.

Outcast Children Of Eve

By R. T. PILLIOTT, K.C.

Through the changing efforts of centuries the Roman Catholic church remains unchanged in purpose and in methods and is still entitled to be classed as the first and still the most scientific user of propaganda.

Propaganda in Europe is the only way to reach the multitude and since a substantial of church origin was attached to a book, the multitude would not resist it.

Therefore the books carrying the Roman Catholic arguments against bolshevism, communism, nazism and all other forms of heinous anarchy—are cast in a tone far removed from all purely scientific influences.

One of the latest of these books, and one, even under the handicap of translation, giving a clear account of the horrors of modern Europe under gorges and dictators, is called Children of Eve, and written by a Hungarian Erik von Kunhelt-Ledwith, who classifies the non-Catholic peoples of Europe as Outcast Children of Eve. The underlying purpose of the book is to impress upon the reader that the Catholic church is ready and willing to rescue the outcasts and that in the belief of the writer there is no other mode of rescue.

Of interest in Canada—where we are harassed by monetary problems and by deflation and unemployment—is the considered Roman Catholic view that, in large measure, national troubles and economic depression are due to the fact that money and interest and usury and special privilege have been used on a gigantic scale to rob the wage-earner and to break down the standard of living. This, it is urged in the book, created the wild urge for remedy which enabled the dictators to seize power.

Of further interest is the considered Roman Catholic view that the worldly remedy is the restoration of wages on an honest scale, the working classes, and the wiping out of the national burdens of paying interest on public bonds, which always grow in total and are never paid off.

The complete idleness of our gold standard and sound money and restriction of money in circulation are graphically delineated in detail, by this line of application being direct and conclusive, although the writer had no intention of referring to Canada and the United States.

JAPANESE WAR HEAD UNWARE OF MANIFESTO

"Have Not Seen It"—Admits Defence Problem Being Studied

TOKYO, Oct. 2.—While the Japanese army's manifesto urging preparation for possible war with Russia continued to be sent to the emperor, the political and economic state today, Gen. Senjuro Kuroki, minister of war, said that he had not even seen it.

"I have not seen the pamphlet," he said, "but the army has been studying the problems of economic and education, which included national defence in the broadest sense."

In Tokyo, Gen. Gen. Terauchi, minister of war, said, "The pamphlet was approved at a meeting of bureau chiefs in the war office before its publication. It is a matter of course, of course, about it."

The manifesto pamphlet took the emperor by surprise. Unaware that it was a manifesto, he was surprised to find it in his hands.

A spokesman of the war office said, "The manifesto expresses the view of the Japanese army."

The manifesto, however, the strength of the Japanese army prevented military interference with the power of the Japanese navy and made the threat of Henry L. Stimson, former United States secretary of state.

Mrs. Vanderbilt, seated at the head of the table with her sister, Constance, wife of Benjamin Thaw, Jr., hurried her face in her handkerchief as the maid testified.

Miss Callout was on the stand most of the day, and declared her former mistress frequently was intoxicated, drank liquor before breakfast, and was a heavy smoker.

Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, paternal aunt of Gloria, is fighting Mrs. Vanderbilt's efforts to obtain possession of the girl.

Report Suggests 5 Or 6 Centres For Manual Arts

TEACHER BODY OPENS ANNUAL MEET THURSDAY

Manual Training Supervisor Reviews Problem in Report to Public School Board Tuesday.

Centralization of manual arts, handicrafts and household science training in special buildings in various sections of the city, instead of operating classes in each school, was advocated by T. E. Hughes, manual training supervisor, in a report submitted to the American Public School Board Tuesday night.

The report, which dealt exhaustively with the manual arts and household science situation in the city public schools, was received by the board sitting in committee on the whole and discussion was deferred when closing time for the meeting arrived.

Mr. Hughes stated that the 30 made seven classes are at present receiving only one-quarter day's instruction per week instead of the half-day, called for in the curriculum, due to shortage of staff. Two full-time and two half-time teachers are required, he said. No action was taken on this matter.

In the suggestions for future development, involving establishment of five or six handicraft centres, Mr. Hughes referred to ultimate

"The likelihood of a complete change in the content of the manual training program for the high school and the removal from it of its somewhat vocational bias will open up possibilities in diversified courses that will enable us to encourage the real spirit of craftsmanship," the report said in part.

Reviewing present facilities, the report stated that the present shops, one of recent construction, were more or less inadequate to present conditions. Basement rooms, added at present, are usually a make-

The experiment in providing the aide nine option in manual training and household science at King Edward school had proved remarkably successful, the supervisor stated, approximately 80 per cent of the pupils registering for the course this year.

Suggestion of extending this phase of the work to another centre, probably H. A. Gray school, was advanced by Supt. G. A. McKee, but Capitalization of the new companies runs anywhere from $200 to $500.

The move by the A.G.T.'s to dispose of the rural lines is the result of the depreciation in value and deterioration in quality due to existing conditions with decreasing number of users. It is felt by experts that formation of the rural companies was the best method of disposing of the rural lines and every assistance is being

WHEAT PRICES TAKE TUMBLE AT WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG, Oct. 3.—The price situation for wheat and barley has taken a sharp turn for the worse in the Winnipeg Grain Exchange as a result of liquidation orders and the fact that at a time when little or no support was in evidence, final wheat figures were 25 to 26 cents lower. October wheat closed at 74 1/2, down 1 1/2, to 73 1/2, and May wheat at 74 1/2, down 1 1/2, to 73 1/2.

Chicago and eastern interests were again credited with selling Export wheat, but no firm was available.

Government buying also was reported.

Liverpool closed 1 1/2 to 1 1/4 lower.

A better demand for cash grain reflected the improvement in export wheat. Cash grain was weakening by what's demanded.

SENIOR GRID SQUADS OPEN SCHOOL LOOP

Quite naturally, the world series is the all-around sport event of the next few days. But for those who are not interested in the game, there is still a lot of excitement in the world of the senior grid players. The senior grid players are the ones who are the most interested in the game, and they are the ones who are the most active in the game. They are the ones who are the most active in the game, and they are the ones who are the most active in the game.

Enthusiasm for the Edmonton Bulletin 10-Mile Race next Monday was boosted by the six-year-old runner adding their names to the list. It is probable, too, that there will be at least one or two more Saskatchewan golfers coming, as well as a number more from local and rural Alberta points.

Howie Moore's announced retirement from hockey yesterday will be a great blow to the most followers of the ice pastime. It is a great blow to the most followers of the ice pastime. It is a great blow to the most followers of the ice pastime. It is a great blow to the most followers of the ice pastime.

You can be sure that Heister will either be in a Canadian uniform again this winter or with some other NHL club. He is too valuable a man for the major league teams to let him go. He is too valuable a man for the major league teams to let him go. He is too valuable a man for the major league teams to let him go.

Vassie, Calgary and Lehnberg are expected to have strong line-ups. It is doubtful if they will be able to do so. It is doubtful if they will be able to do so. It is doubtful if they will be able to do so.

FAMOUS BRIDGE PLAYER

WHAT'S THE PROFITABLE BIDDING LIMIT?

How high to bid before doubling is an important question repeatedly arising, just as it did with the players of the hand today. Neither side was vulnerable, and the East was anxious to be the declarer. Two members of the West club asked how high North should bid before doubling East.

Bulletin 10-Mile Race Expects Strong Field

Three new entries were added to those already listed for the sixth renewal of the annual Edmonton Bulletin race to be held over the 10-mile route on Thanksgiving Day, October 8, and with only four more days left in which to register many more entries are expected.

Coronation will be well represented by S. Stevens. His entry was received yesterday, as were Ray Lambertson's and George Hollaway's of Edmonton.

The Coronation contestant is a popular runner, having competed in several marathons throughout Alberta and in Saskatchewan, and is looked upon as strong opposition for the present titleholder, Jack Walberg, of Saskatoon, who is again represented in the fall classic and will be defending the handsome Bulletin trophy.

Entries of Ray Lambertson and George Hollaway swell the number of local contestants for the four, Willard Walker and B. Bowser having made their entry a few days ago.

The reputation of the popular Lambertson is well known to Edmonton followers of marathons and should prove a strong contest for the premier honors in the Bulletin race.

Ray reports he ran in the Bulletin race last year for the first time and, although he was beaten by the feet-footed Walberg, he has hopes of turning the tables on the Saskatoon star in this race. Ray has been most successful in distance races and has made an impressive showing in the Highlands Games which were held in Edmonton.

In the three-mile provincial run, featuring Walberg on Thanksgiving Day, although there remain only a few days in which to enter, it is assured that a large inter-provincial field will be competing and it would appear certain that Jack Walberg's hopes for a strong field will be realized.

Besides the premier trophy, the handsome Bulletin cup, many more smaller prizes have been arranged for and with a strong state of officers to guide the race there is little doubt of the success that will crown this major fall event.

Entries may be made to Sergeant John Leslie at City Police Headquarters or to the Sports Editor of the Edmonton Bulletin. It is requested that amateur card numbers be also reported.
